

¿Qué es HTTP?

Por: Ricardo Cuellar

HTTP

HTTP (Hypertext Transfer Protocol), es un protocolo que permite la comunicación entre un cliente y un servidor.

Petición HTTP

Método: GET, POST, PUT, PATCH, DELETE.

Ruta: /users, /products, /login

Headers: Información adicional de la petición. (Authorization, Content-Type, Accept, User-Agent)

Respuesta HTTP

Status Code: 200, 301, 404, etc.

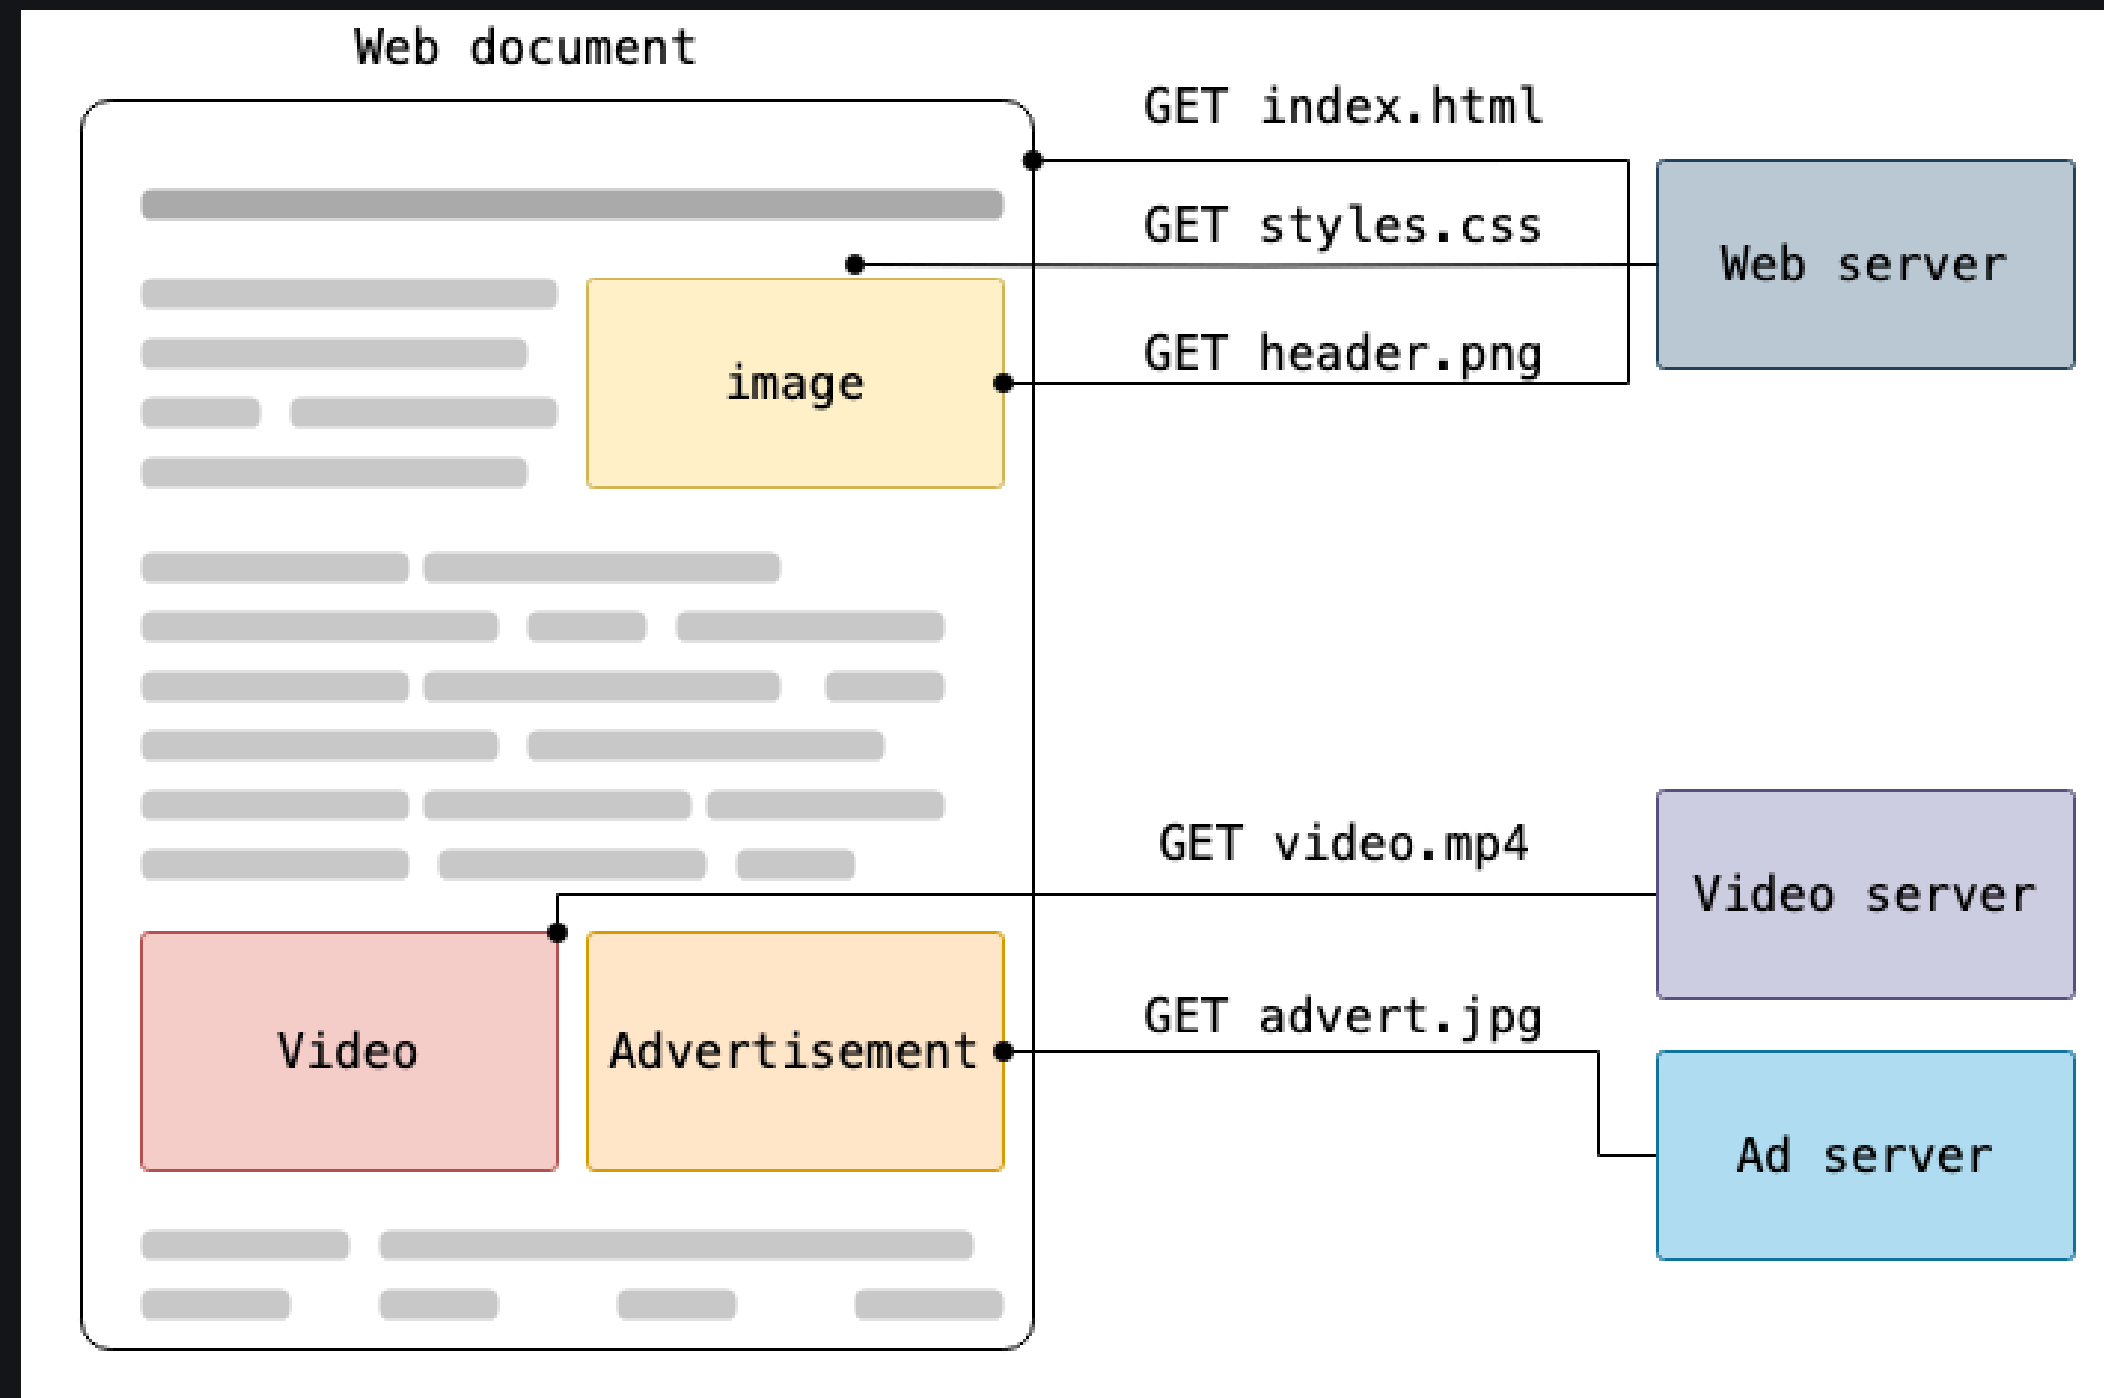

Headers: metadatos de la respuesta
(Content-Type, Set-Cookie, Access-Control-Allow-Origin, etc.)

Body: Contenido principal de la respuesta

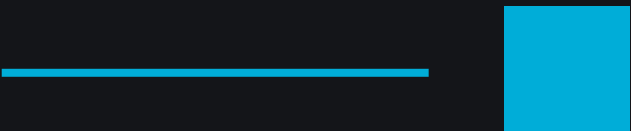

Versión HTTP: HTTP/1.1

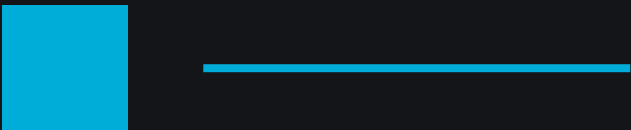

Sitio web

Status Code

2xx Success	3xx Redirection	4xx Client Error	5xx Server Error
200 Success/OK	301 Permanet Redirection	401 Unauthorized Error	501 Not Implemented
201 Created	302 Temporary Redirect	403 Forbidden	502 Bad Gateway
202 Accepted	303 Not modified	404 Not found	503 Service Unavailable

Gracias

www.devtalles.com

/ricardocuellars

@ricardocuellars

